With graduation only a short time away, it's time to check out what you really want from a Graduate Program. For any student looking to start their career out on the right foot, BHP Billiton Nickel West offers one of the best Graduate Programs in the Australian mining industry, giving you much more than your standard mining operation. Our key focus is to provide you with real on-the-job experience and skills development through practical application and tasks.

The Graduate Program is three years long with a rotation after 18 months. And the best thing is you'll get offered a permanent position at the conclusion of the program. We're looking for people with the potential for leadership, a strong sense of initiative, resilience and the ability to adapt to any situation. If you've worked hard to become technically skilled and enjoy working both independently and in a team environment, it's time you got what you really want.
