IMPORTANT INFORMATION - PLEASE READ

Howshouldivote.com.au does not support and is not backed by any particular party or candidate and does not recommend voting for any particular party or candidate in the election. The howshouldivote.com.au quiz provides you with a tool to assist you in casting your vote and should not be interpreted as a recommendation that you vote for any particular party or candidate. The results of the quiz are no guarantee that the parties and candidates hold the same views as you on all issues. You should carefully read the policies and positions of each particular party and candidate before you cast your vote to ensure that they truly accord with your own views.

* - These candidates had match scores which are equal. As a result, the order of these candidates relative to each other has been generated randomly by a computer.

 - This candidate has not completed the survey, nor has a response been received on behalf of the candidate from the political party which endorsed the candidate. As a result, this candidate has been preferenced below candidates who have either completed the survey, or on whose behalf a response has been received from the political party which has endorsed that candidate. Where more than one candidate has not completed the survey and no response has been received from a political party on their behalf, the order of these candidates relative to each other has been generated randomly by a computer.

- This candidate has not completed the survey. The match score has been generated based on a response received on behalf of the candidate from the political party which endorsed the candidate.

Despite our best efforts to get all candidates to participate, many candidates, including most candidates endorsed by the Liberal and National Parties, have not completed the survey, nor has the Liberal Party accepted howshouldivote.com.au's invitation to provide a response on behalf of its endorsed candidates. Any candidate for whom a survey response has not been received cannot be allocated the number 1 preference (or another preference above that of candidates for whom a response has been received) on how-to-vote cards generated by this website, regardless of your response to the survey. If you would like such a candidate to participate, feel free to contact them directly and encourage them to complete the survey.
